Licensed Psychotherapist, Florida

1999 - present. Private psychotherapy practice offering individual, premarital, marital, adolescent and family-oriented therapy, dealing with all phases of psychological and emotional difficulty. Risk management consulting, responsible for behavioral assessment and functional analysis, development and implementation of behavior protocols for developmentally challenged clients, autism spectrum disorders and ADD/ADHD patients, behaviorally challenged adolescents, and patients with traumatic brain injury. Train and supervise parents, teachers and staff in the implementation of behavioral protocols; work with parents, teachers, and interdisciplinary treatment teams to incorporate behavioral principles into overall treatment strategy. Specific areas of expertise include marriage, relationship and treatment or family conflicts, anger management, anxiety disorders, addictions, autism spectrum disorders, sexual abuse, sex offender assessment and treatment, PTSD and trauma recovery, and Internet-related addictions and disorders. Public speaker and workshop presenter. Member of national on-call crisis-response team providing on-site trauma and critical incident debriefing.

Reunification Therapist/Family Intervention Therapist, Florida

2016 - present. Reunification therapy - or Family Intervention Therapy - is designed to repair a parent-child relationship which has been disrupted either during or after a high conflict divorce. Typically, a non-custodial parent asks a court to order reunification therapy after one or more children stop following an stipulated or court-ordered parenting plan. The preferred parent may claim that the children simply do not want to see the rejected parent, and the rejected parent may accuse the preferred parent of "parental alienation." Family intervention therapy is designed to cautiously address the reasons for estrangement and/or alienation, and work with the child(ren) exhibiting "resist-refuse" dynamics. This is a Court-ordered role requiring specialized training, designed to address the reasons for a child's anxiety, discomfort or anger regarding timesharing with a non-preferred parent.

Qualified Parenting Coordinator, Florida

2007 - present. State of Florida Qualification, through the University of South Florida's Dispute Resolution Center. Design and implement parenting plans and assist high-conflict parents in the resolution of disputes in divorce and post-divorce situations. Educate parents regarding children's developmental needs, the impact of divorce, effective communication skills, cooperative co-parenting skills, efficient time-sharing and conflict resolution skills. Empowered to make binding decisions without expensive court involvement in many common post-divorce disputes.

Parenting Plan Evaluator/Social Investigator, Florida

2005 - present. Recognized in Hillsborough, Pinellas, Pasco and Polk County family law courts as an expert witness in child custody, parenting plan evaluations, social investigations and home studies, and reunification therapy. Conduct court-ordered social investigations and parenting plan evaluations during high-conflict divorces. Write detailed investigation reports and make recommendations to assist the Court in designing parenting plans that are in the best interests of the child. Also conduct court-ordered reunification therapy in cases of estrangement or alienation.

Supreme Court Certified Family Law Mediator, Florida

2003 - present. Certified by the Florida Supreme Court to conduct all forms of family mediation, including divorce mediation, child custody and support concerns, property settlement, family disputes, etc. Also mediate church disputes to avoid litigation and division in church settings.

Trial Consultant/Qualified Expert Witness – Family Law Courts, Hillsborough/Pinellas/Pasco/Polk Counties, Florida 2007 – present. Consult with attorneys and litigants in family law, criminal and civil courts. Work-product review of parenting plan evaluations, social investigations, and time-sharing schedules. Review trial documents and advise litigants during divorce and other family law litigation. Provide mental health related advice, develop deposition/trial questions and strategy, and assist attorneys throughout litigation process. Serve as expert witness in family law matters such as time-sharing, parental alienation, developmental needs assessment, child development concerns, autism spectrum disorders, child abuse/neglect issues, and involvement of Florida Department of Children & Families. Assess emotional and psychological impact on children of divorce or death of parent or other family member, trauma of sexual, physical, and emotional abuse, and alienation for purposes of time-sharing and/or financial award consideration.
